REFORM IN POLITICS.

Since the return of the Republican party to power the efforts to reform our political system have been unremitting.

Under the administration of Mr. Cleveland, that gentleman with a due regard for the provisions of what we term the civil service law, tried in a measure to carry them out. When he took charge of the executive affairs of the country, he found officials at Washington who had been in the employ of the government for a number of years, and had made it their life's work to keep the business in line he allowed many of them to remain and hold their places although of opposite political faith. Congress had passed the law and Mr. Cleveland believed in adhering to its requirements as much as possible by keeping competent men in office, and in this he was right. Those though had proved to be. He had properly condemned and abased by members of his party for not making a clean sweep of Republican office holders, but to all appeals and words of warning he seemed to give but little concern. A man of the people and recognizing the responsibility of the high trust to which he had called him, it was his desire to eliminate that which he considered of bad politics.

Some of the young men of the town are making an effort to get up a brass band.

Miss E. Root, of Union Star, was visiting Mrs. W. K. Barnes last Saturday.

John Smith left Sunday to take a position as Express Messenger on the railroad.

Our ship-people may probably see into the cause of it now.

These confidence men tried to work the same old Monte game on Mr. George W. Smith, a wealthy farmer of Hardinsburg county to the amount of $7,000 last week, but failed. The action of Mr. Smith in declining to accept the propositions of his shrewd visitors, is one instance which proves an exception to the rule in such cases. While repeated accounts of farmers being swindled by these confidence men are given in the papers from day to day, it is seldom you hear of one who fails to bite at the game whenever it is put up to him. And herein lies the importance of our farmers keeping as well posted on public events as other people. They should take some good paper and read it, and when these "money thieves" come around they would be able to spot them most easily.

Sawyer, Wallace & Co., big tobacco brokers of New York and Louisville, have a $220,000 damage suit on their hands for the alleged unlawful detention of 1,547 headgears of tobacco delivered to them to be sold in the market, and they put it in for the recovery of the amount of the market without the consent or knowledge of the plaintiffs Eichel & Lowenthal.

As Sawyer, Wallace & Co., are known to nearly every tobacco dealer in the country the result of this suit will be looked forward to with a good deal of interest.

About the only complaint we ever heard against this firm was that they would never sell tobacco at the right time.

Our ship-people may probably see into the cause of it now.

Over in Warsaw Indiana, a Mrs. Woods, notified all the keepers in the town not to sell her husband any more whiskey. The saloon men failed to stop her orders, and she then turned to the saloon men, telling them she considered of bad politics.

This was shown in all of his handling of public affairs. We who stood afar off and observed his management of government, were too ready to criticize. As we believed then and now, the proper thing for Mr. Cleveland to have done was to have dismissed Republican officials and to have appointed men to office, who were in accordance with the civil service law, but he did not. Such a man is not successful in politics.

Some such would have given him a longer lease upon the White House and kept his party in power, but rather than succumb to the wills of his most faithful partisans he ignored them and followed his own ideas. He interpreted the civil service law as applying to places of trust and persons in the government service and keep them there regardless of politics and policies. Such a man would have given him a very wide lease.

He is being whispered about that Hon. Proctor Knott and Hon. J. A. McKenzie are plotting to secure a seat in the U. S. Senate to down Joe Blackburn and to have him to his seat. When it comes to this kind of a fight the Hon. Joe will be a very easy winner.

Miss Dolly Highbee, the accomplished writer of social chat for the Courier Journal, has written a novel of Kentucky life, appropriately called "In God's Country." The novel will appear soon in "Belford's Magazine" — Owensboro Inquirer.

Louisville besides being the greatest tobacco market in the world, has over three hundred different manufacturing establishments, including the largest plug factory and the largest wagon factory in the world. Truly, Louisville is getting to be a great city.

It is being whispered about that Hon. Proctor Knott and Hon. J. A. McKenzie are plotting to secure a seat in the U. S. Senate to down Joe Blackburn and to have him to his seat. When it comes to this kind of a fight the Hon. Joe will be a very easy winner.

Mr. W. V. McCracken is expected here Saturday, when the question of the railroad coming through town may be finally settled.

Mr. Thomas H. Ditto is able to drive about the country again.

Mr. D. C. Turrentine left our town last week for Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Moremen are visiting relatives in Bullitt county.

Mr. A. D. Stith, attended the grand to do in Louisville last week.

I hear of a good many persons going to the Owensboro fair this week.

Mr. H. C. Woodson and wife were in the city last week to see the sights.

Messrs. J. W. Lewis and Morgan Richardson were in the city last week.

Mr. George H. Casper and wife attended the Satellites ball last week.

Miss Fannie Hardin, of Holt, Ky., is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. F. Fontaine.

Mrs. Hattie Grinnell and Mrs. O. C. Richardson were in the city last week.

The bird law is out and every fellow that can is after the poor things.

Mr. S. P. Woolfolk and wife were in the city last week to witness the great show.

Miss Minnie Phillips, of Lebanon, Ky., visited Misses Little and Julia Ditto last week.

Mr. A. W. Moremen and sister, Miss George, have returned from Grayson Springs.

Mr. James G. Stephens and Hon. William Moremen, of Holt, were in our town.

Mr. A. W. Moremen is to be built at the A. O. & M. R. and T. L. and T. R. railroads. It has been much needed for a long time.

The most notable instance of the former was the appointment of Tanner to be Commissioner of Pensions. Mr. Harrison was aware of the man's incompetency, but through hope of reward from members of the Grand Army of the Republic, who stood at Tanner's back, he gave him the office. Tanner, however, did not last months until he was forced to kick him out. This is not the only blunder made by President Harrison. Others occur daily.

As things now stand we are about to loose hope. There is President Harrison between him and his predecessor in executive ability. Distrust, dissatisfaction and a reign of turmoil is kept up within the official sanctum from early morn until late noon.

Some are given positions without regard to fitness or qualifications. Others, who have contributed to the cause, and have the old machine back to power are turned aside with the promise of future reward. Week after week a dieharding competent men by the score and allowing their places to be filled by Republicans without the slightest reference to their qualifications, and which whole dieharding of the public service is becoming contemptible in the sight of honest men. But there is no appeal from it just yet. A brighter day is dawning however, when beneath God's sunshines the people will come forth and pass a veto on this party machine. For through the Republicans they have given about up all hopes of accomplishing any reforms.

Mrs. James G. Blaine, wife of J. G. Blaine, Jr., is lying dangerously ill at her home in Philadelphia. Some time ago Mrs. Blaine parted from her husband, young J. G. Jr., and sought to prepare for the theatrical stage for livelihood. Since then she was seized with inflammatory rheumatism, and it is of this disease, from which she has seriously suffered, that she is almost despaired of. She is the mother of one child, and she adopted the state to make it herself a support. Compelled to leave her husband James G. Blaine, Esq., on account of his drunkenness, debauchery and a failure to provide for her. Her son is one who is exacting a full share of attention. She is said to be a quite beautiful young woman. The Blaines family have all turned up their noses and refuse to give her the slightest attention.

Henderson is yet a little sore over the loss of her machine shop and is taking revenge on her wide-awake and progressive neighbor Owensboro. The Gleaser of that city says: "A citizen of Owensboro went to Madisonville and spent retiring blow out the gas and came near being exploded."

On Saturday, July 20th, the official card from the Louisiana State Lottery company announced that No 38,607 drew the second capital prize of $10,000 in Tuesday, July 16th, drawing, the tickets being held in twenty-first, one-twentieth sold in Lancing, Mich. Conjectures as to who won the lucky number ran wide. Some were of the opinion that it was a man named Cooper, employed at the iron works, who had it. Others thought the entire thing a delusion and a scare. By pursuing investigations unremittingly, the Lancing, Mich., Minister has ascertained the owner of the ticket to the fortune of $10,000 to be none other than Rev. Fred Mayer, the German Evangelical minister.—Lancing (Mich.) Republican, Aug. 7.
